

PLAS

PROGRAM IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

FELLOWSHIPS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

The Program in Latin American Studies at Princeton University invites applications for the following opportunities:

Long-term Visiting Fellowships

plas.princeton.edu/fellowships/plas-fellowships/long-term-fellowships

PLAS awards four to six long-term fellowships annually, for one or two semesters, to top international or national scholars, and promising mid-career scholars, in the humanities and social sciences who have teaching experience, as well as established writers, artists, filmmakers and architects who are working on projects related to Latin America and are stellar teachers, who will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University.

Deadline to apply: October 17, 2021

Short-term Visiting Fellowships

plas.princeton.edu/fellowships/plas-fellowships/short-term-fellowships

PLAS awards five to seven short-term fellowships, for stays of one-month, to outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as to established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America. Visiting Fellows are expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Deadline to apply: October 17, 2021

PLAS Postdoctoral Fellowships for Junior Scholars

plas.princeton.edu/fellowships/plas-fellowships/postdoctoral-fellowships

PLAS awards two postdoctoral fellowships annually to the most promising early career scholars from any discipline who are engaged in research related to Latin American Studies, including the Caribbean and Brazil. The fellowship is a 12-month term starting in the fall, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. PLAS postdoctoral research associates are expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. They are also expected to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Deadline to apply: December 3, 2021

Learn more about PLAS Fellowships:
plas.princeton.edu/fellowships/plas-fellowships

